MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL

Welcome to our Spring newsletter. I would like to thank parents and carers firstly for all their support this term in minimising the disruption caused the strike days and the snow day. The support and help you provide to your son/daughter in helping them with their studies and becoming effective independent learners really does make a huge difference not only now but in the future. Preparing students for examinations will be essential this summer term not only for year 11 and 13 for their external exams but all year groups will have end of year exams this summer. The dates are outlined on page 14. We have also include useful tips in how you can help your son/daughter revise effectively. Please do go over these dates with them.

There has been so much to celebrate this term. The “our house” production was magnificent with a cast which spanned the age ranges. We had enormous success at the Worksop festival. The Elizabethan charity work has continued full steam ahead led by our student leadership team. We continue to experience success at sporting events and many of our talented students are also going on to receive national accolades..

It is the time of year when we review the year and evaluate what we do well and how we can further improve. So I have feedback from all stakeholders, I would be really grateful if you could complete our parent surveys ( <https://forms.office.com/e/5iH4PByh1w> ). In addition I am trying to get a PTSA off the ground and am looking for willing volunteers. This would not be onerous and involves a termly meeting to provide feedback and help organise events. Please contact head@elizabethan.notts.sch.uk for more information or to volunteer. I do hope that you and your families have a happy and healthy Easter break

Best wishes

Christine Horrocks

WELLBEING & READING!

Happy Easter everyone! Here's a very happy me surrounded by books in the school library...woof! I love having my photo taken! My tips for the holidays are first, to always take some time to read. I enjoy grabbing a few pages in a morning to give my brain a kick-start for the day. It works for humans and us furballs :) Also, take care of your wellbeing by going on lots of walks...especially with your dogs! But, remember to have fun and relax...I think we all deserve it!

Stay healthy and floofy!

LEEDS UNIVERSITY FAIR TRIP 2023

What a brilliant trip it was with our Year 12s/13s to the Leeds University Fair on Thursday 9th March 2023! Despite the snow, we gained lots of information and hope our year 12/13 students have gained more understanding for their futures... what great scenery the snow made!

Huge thanks to the staff who joined and faced the gloomy weather also! We hope the students found it useful and enjoyed their deserved day out.

SKI TRIP 2023...

Over half term our students had the wonderful opportunity to travel to Andorra for our ski trip. The students were incredibly well behaved and have been an absolute credit to our school. Over the course of the trip there was lots of laughter from staff and students alongside a superb amount of resilience and respect throughout the week. Miss Riley, Mr Riley and Mrs Ward are incredibly proud of everything the students have achieved and have loved every minute of the trip!

Comments from students:

“The best part of the trip was deciding to push through my injuries because if I didn’t, I wouldn’t have progressed as much as I did. Jess’s energy definitely made this trip, if she wasn’t here I don’t think everyone would have kept their spirits high when we came across obstacles”.

“Overall through the falls, faints, crashes and aches, the best part of the trip was blasting karaoke at the top of our lungs, not caring who heard, especially in that (hopefully) sound proof room!”

“The best part of our trip was our ski instructor being an absolute icon, filming TikTok’s with us. I love the fact that Florence almost decapitated 3 people in a row but then casually shrugged it off. Best of all, eating mainly chips that much that I never want to look at them again!!”

You may have seen Andrew Tate's name pop up in the news, or you may have heard about him from your children. Read on to find out who he is, why he's in the news, the risks he poses and how to talk about him at home.

Who is Andrew Tate?

§ Social media influencer with over 5 million followers on Twitter

§ Former professional kickboxer

§ Previous Big Brother contestant

Why is he in the news?

In 2022, Andrew Tate was banned from YouTube, Facebook, Instagram and TikTok due to his controversial and misogynistic (hatred and discrimination against women) posts.

In December 2022, he was arrested in Romania along with his brother on suspicion of human trafficking, organised crime and rape.

How does this affect our children?

Andrew Tate, sometimes referred to as the 'king of misogyny', is a famous and influential figure on social media, even after being banned. He draws a lot of attention to his extreme wealth, luxury lifestyle and possessions, such as his expensive cars.

Children may still see his content (as other people can still share his posts) and may believe that acting and thinking like he does will lead to fame, fortune and success.

He promotes ideas such as:

§ Men are more important and more powerful than women

§ Violence against woman is okay

§ Men shouldn't show emotion

He has said things like:

§ “I think the women belong to the man”

§ “[Women are] intrinsically lazy”

§ “[There is] no such thing as an independent female”

§ “Depression isn’t real”

§ “The hallmark of a real man is controlling himself, controlling his emotions, and acting appropriately regardless of how he feels”

We know our young people are talking about Andrew Tate, and boys in particular are being influenced and ‘groomed’ by his views, with concerns that his power and influence could lead to radicalisation and violence against women. Girls are also in danger of accepting that what he says about women is true (i.e. that they’re worth less than men).

What can you do as parents?

We are talking about topics raised by Andrew Tate in school, for example through our TP programme and PSHCE curriculum. However, children are less likely to listen to influencers such as Andrew Tate if they are having similar conversations reinforced at home.

We recommend you:

1. Read recent news articles about Andrew Tate, if you’re not already familiar with him

2. Ask your child what they’re getting up to online – show genuine interest, don’t judge them or tell them what they should and shouldn’t be doing. Children are more likely to share if they feel you’re interested, rather than trying to check up on them

3. Have open discussions about Andrew Tate – don’t tell your child how to think, but question their thinking and understanding. Ask if they believe what Andrew Tate says, for example his comments that women “belong” to men, and how that might make the women in their lives feel, or they themselves feel. The charity Bold Voices have a great toolkit to help with this (Andrew Tate toolkit, Bold Voices)

4. Be role models – encourage your child to be open with their emotions. Teach them that it’s okay to cry if you’re sad. Show respect for women and girls, and encourage your child to model this behaviour.

Fake news and disinformation online

What's the problem?

Fake news is false or misleading information presented as genuine news.

Your child might have seen fake news online about the Russian invasion of Ukraine. There have been examples of old footage being shared as if it's new, or images being manipulated to present a misleading picture about what's happening. There's been lots of misinformation on TikTok in particular.

Fake news and disinformation have also been linked to radicalisation by extremists and attempts to skew people's world views. For example, extremist narratives relating to coronavirus include:

§ Antisemitic conspiracy theories blaming Jewish people for the spread of the virus or suggesting it's a 'Jewish plot'

§ Claims that British Muslims have flouted social distancing rules

§ Anti-Chinese hatred

§ Isis-inspired narratives about how coronavirus is a divine punishment for the 'sinful behaviours' of the west

§ Extreme right-wing conspiracies that society is collapsing and far-right groups can accelerate its end

Reading information like this can upset or worry your child unnecessarily. Fake news also helps create a culture of fear and uncertainty, with children trusting reputable news outlets less as a result of fake news.

If you're worried about your child's safety and/or wellbeing over the Easter break, email safeguarding@elizabethan.notts.sch.uk our dedicated mail box to contact a member of the safeguarding team

How can you help your child to spot fake news online?

Tell them to ask themselves:

§ What's the source? Is it a reputable news source, and are mainstream news outlets reporting it too?

§ When was it published? Check the date an article was published, as sometimes old stories are shared on social media.

This could be an accident, or it might be to make it look like something happened recently

§ Have you seen anything similar elsewhere? What happens if you search for it on Google or check it using a fact-checking website like Full Fact?

§ Do the pictures look real? Images might have been edited. They might also be unrelated images that have been used with the story

§ Why might this have been created? Could someone be trying to provoke a specific reaction, change your beliefs, or get you to click a link?

Encourage them to read beyond the headline too. Many people share stories having just read the headline, then discover the actual story is quite different.

Point them to the government's SHARE checklist (<https://sharechecklist.gov.uk/>) and advice from Childline (<https://bit.ly/3oYfsgd>) too.

What signs of radicalisation should you be alert to?

It's worth knowing what signs to be alert to, just in case. If you do see these signs, it doesn't necessarily mean your child is being radicalised – it could be nothing at all, or it could be a sign that something else is wrong.

§ Becoming more isolated from friends and family

§ Not being willing or able to talk about their views

§ Becoming more angry

§ Talking as if from a script

§ A sudden disrespectful attitude towards others

Being more secretive, especially about their internet use
